To Whom It May Concern,

Re: Fitzgerald Projects

It is just over 12 months since Fitzgerald Projects completed the conversion of a residential property to consulting rooms for my psychotherapy practise. Every day at work I am reminded of the professionalism and care that went into the work they did on the property. My colleagues and patients all comment on how beautiful the transformation of the building has been. This is due to the quality of the work, the finishes and the design and layout of the rooms. The project underwent a number of revisions on the way through, and the Fitzgerald's expert knowledge and advice, as well as their capacity for flexibility, were key to turning a somewhat unusual residence into an excellent fit-for-purpose health centre.

Brendon, Karen and Tim were wonderful to work with, as were the experienced and friendly team of skilled tradespeople they brought to the project. In particular, the clarity and ease of communication with all of them was critical to the great working partnership that I experienced with them. They were very supportive and helped contain the anxiety that comes with the inevitable hiccups in the conversion of an older property. Brendon's experience and sense of humour was especially helpful; when I saw problems, he saw solutions, and his calm quirky wisdom was both a relief and a pleasure.

I have been involved in renovations before, and Fitzgerald Projects have been far and away the best building company I have worked with. I thoroughly commend them to future customers,

Conrad Hauser
